1. Introduction and Purpose

NovaTaste is committed to conducting its business with integrity. Therefore, NovaTaste strives to create a culture where employees, suppliers, contractors and other stakeholders feel comfortable speaking up. Reported concerns are treated seriously and handled in a manner that protects those reporting (“whistleblowers”) against any form of retaliation. The identification of concerns related to misconduct allows NovaTaste to take appropriate action that could prevent further misconduct. Therefore, speaking up may limit potential financial and reputational damages as well as other unwanted outcomes.

This policy aims to encourage and support individuals who report concerns related to misconduct. It also lays out the principles, reporting procedures as well as the process and responsibilities for handling reports on misconduct. In addition, this policy also outlines the potential consequences in instances where it is violated.

2. Scope

This policy applies to all employees, Executive Committee (EC) Members, supervisors and management members working for NovaTaste (Pepper BidCo GmbH and Cumin HoldCo GmbH and all its subsidiaries and affiliates or majority owned joint ventures worldwide, collectively referred to here as “NovaTaste”). It also applies to temporary personnel, such as officers, consultants, contractors, freelancers, casual workers, agency workers, apprentices, volunteers, interns, and former employees. Furthermore, it covers shareholders, suppliers, service providers, agents and business partners. Everything that applies to employees equally applies to the named third parties. Therefore, third parties are not mentioned separately below. Any reference to “employee” or “employees” in the policy shall be understood as all categories of employees as well as third parties stated above.

3. Policy Implementation

It is explicitly acknowledged that this policy may go beyond or deviate from what is required by local law. If this policy provides better protection for whistleblowers, the respective NovaTaste provisions will prevail. For any other conflicts between this policy and local law, local law will prevail.

Please note however that Speak up reporting mechanisms might not be used for general complaints about salaries or other Human Resources (HR) related topics or dissatisfaction with office equipment or similar. For these cases, please contact local HR or your direct manager. Any such complaints will be deleted without further investigation.

4. Speak up principles

4.1. Duty to report and to refrain from own investigation

NovaTaste’s reputation for integrity depends upon the action of its employees. Therefore, employees are reminded that, they can report any concern related to misconduct without fearing any retaliation of any kind. Employees shall not start any investigation by themselves.

4.2. Protection of whistleblower identity

NovaTaste encourages all employees to identify themselves when reporting a concern or providing information. Whistleblowers may report concerns anonymously without disclosing their identity via the Speak up mechanism (NovaTaste’s speak up reporting tool). However, they must be aware that the proper handling of a report and/or an investigation is more difficult, and sometimes even impossible, if the reporting employee’s identity is not known. The Speak up mechanism still allows for two-way, anonymous communication, even if a whistleblower chooses to withhold their identity.

If the whistleblower discloses their identity, the person receiving the non- anonymous report will still treat their identity as strictly confidential. The whistleblower’s identity and information provided by them will only be shared with others on an absolute need-to-know basis.

There may be circumstances where information may require disclosure. In these cases, the whistleblower will generally be informed about the disclosure. These circumstances may include, but are not limited to the following situations:

- a) where NovaTaste has to disclose information provided by a whistleblower due to a legal obligation;
- b) where information is given on a strictly confidential basis to legal or auditing professionals for the purpose of gaining professional advice; and
- c) where the information is given to the government authorities for the purpose of a criminal investigation.

In addition, information may be disclosed, and the whistleblower informed if the information is no longer secret because it is already in the public domain. If NovaTaste is confronted with a situation not covered by the above, and where it is necessary to disclose an identity, the disclosure will, to the extent legally possible, first be discussed with the whistleblower.

4.3. Protection from retaliation and harassment

All employees are protected from any form of retaliation (or professional harm) for reporting concerns about wrongdoing, if those reports are made in good faith. Consequently, if a genuine concern is raised, the whistleblower will be protected whether it proves to be true. Measures taken in retaliation for a justified tip-off are legally invalid, in particular the following measures:

- 1) Suspension, termination or similar action;
- 2) Non-renewal or premature termination of a fixed-term employment contract;
- 3) Downgrading or denial of a promotion;
- 4) Transfer of duties, change of place of work, reduction in pay, change in working hours;
- 5) Refusal to participate in further training measures;
- 6) Negative performance appraisal or issue of a poor reference;
- 7) Disciplinary action, reprimand or other sanction, including financial sanctions;
- 8) Early termination or cancellation of a contract for goods or services;
- 9) Withdrawal of a license or permit;
- 10) Coercion, intimidation, bullying or exclusion;
- 11) Discrimination, disadvantageous or unequal treatment;
- 12) Failure to convert a fixed-term employment contract into a permanent employment contract in cases where an employee was entitled to expect to be offered a permanent employment contract;
- 13) Damage, including damage to reputation, particularly in social media, or causing financial loss, including loss of orders or revenue;
- 14) Inclusion of the whistleblower on a blacklist on the basis of an informal or formal sector or industry-specific agreement with the consequence that the whistleblower no longer finds employment across the sector or industry;
- 15) Psychiatric or other referral for medical treatment.

However, NovaTaste will not tolerate frivolous, mischievous, malicious allegations or any other form of misuse of this policy. Therefore, if a report is made in bad faith (i.e., with the intent to harm the accused), the reporter will not be considered a whistleblower and will not be protected under this policy. Any such act is considered to be a serious breach of the Code of Conduct and disciplinary actions will be taken.

4.4. Presumption of innocence until proven guilty

False allegations may be detrimental to the accused's reputation. Therefore, the identity of the accused is protected just as much as the identity of the whistleblower. It is only shared on an absolute need-to-know basis.

5. Procedures

5.1. Internal reporting mechanisms

Whistleblowers must use internal reporting mechanisms in cases where the misconduct can be effectively addressed internally. Whistleblowers wishing to report a concern regarding misconduct may choose to report directly through NovaTaste's Speak up mechanism, which is handled by the Global Compliance Officer, or through local reporting channels, i.e. by email, telephone, mail or in person to a line manager.

If a whistleblower wishes to report directly through the Speak up mechanism, anonymously or not, they can do so via the web link, the dedicated mobile application (for iOS and Android) or by calling a dedicated Interactive Voice Response (IVR) and leaving a message (see Annex A for full details). These three reporting channels are available 24/7, 365 days a year.

Whistleblowers shall always include the “who, what, where, when, how, and why?” when reporting a concern related to misconduct, as well as any other information that may enable NovaTaste to best go about handling and/or investigating the matter. Whistleblowers are free to report in any language they wish (75+ languages available). Any response from the Global Compliance Officer or any investigator will be in the same language as the report was made.

The internal reporting is divided into two branches INTERNAL and EXTERNAL.

- INTERNAL is for all employees (incl. industrial asset workers), Board Members, shareholders, supervisors and management members working for NovaTaste or for its subsidiaries and affiliates or majority owned joint ventures worldwide; Furthermore, it covers apprentices, volunteers, interns, and former employees.
- EXTERNAL is for consultants, contractors, freelancers, casual workers and agency workers. Furthermore, it covers suppliers, service providers, agents and business partners.

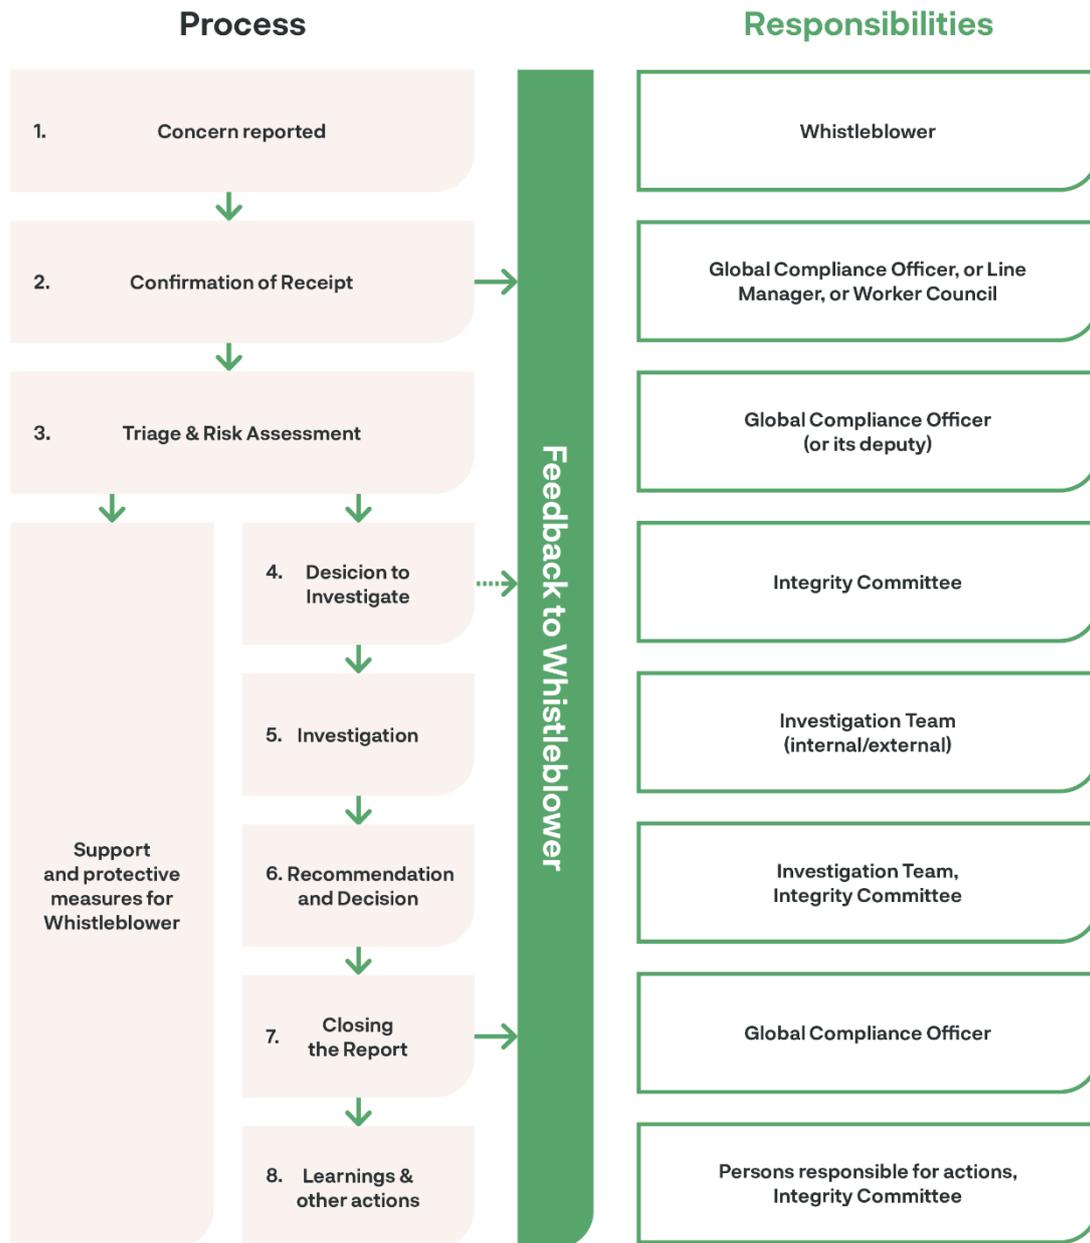

If you want to, you can be informed of any news and updates on your report via automated notification by the Speak up system, if you insert your email-address in the respective field. This address is only for notifications of the system but is not available to the Global Compliance Officer or any member of the Integrity Committee or any investigator unless you provide your contact details in your report.

5.2. External reporting mechanisms

All whistleblowers are strongly encouraged to report internally first. However, NovaTaste declares and acknowledges that this does not limit the right of employees to make a report externally to a relevant competent authority. Such a report will normally relate to the conduct of NovaTaste employees but may sometimes relate to the conduct of a third party, such as a customer, supplier or service provider. External reporting may be required by law in certain countries. In all cases, whistleblowers are encouraged to seek the advice of the Global Compliance Officer, in his or her capacity as policy owner and as the person responsible for the Speak Up process, before making an external report.

5.3. Dealing with Reports

The following is a description of each of the steps that will be taken in the handling of reports of concerns related to misconduct.

5.3.1. Report of a concern related to misconduct

For the internal reporting mechanism, whistleblowers report a concern about misconduct through the Speak up mechanism (i.e., web, app, hotline) or through a local reporting channel (i.e., email, phone) or in person to a line manager, the works council (if established) or the Global Compliance Officer.

5.3.2. Receiving (or referring)

The Global Compliance Officer receives the report through the Speak up mechanism, or the line manager, the works council (if established) or the Global Compliance Officer receives the report by email, telephone, mail or in person. If anyone else receives a report, they will forward it to the Global Compliance Officer (directly or through the Speak up mechanism), who will inform the whistleblower accordingly. The whistleblower will receive an acknowledgement of receipt via the Speak up mechanism (if the report is not anonymous), from the line manager, works council or Global Compliance Officer within one week (seven days). If the report is made through the local reporting channel (i.e. to the line manager or works council or Global Compliance Officer), the works council/line manager/Global Compliance Officer is required to submit a report through the Speak up mechanism on behalf of the whistleblower and inform the whistleblower accordingly.

5.3.3. Triage & Risk assessment

The Global Compliance Officer or his/her deputy will initially evaluate the report of a concern related to misconduct for purposes of categorization, preliminary action, prioritization and assignment for further handling (i.e., considering the likelihood of the alleged misconduct and its potential impact, e.g., physical health risks, mental health risks, legal risks, etc.).

The Global Compliance Officer or his/her deputy shall assess the risk of detriment/retaliation against the whistleblower and other relevant parties. The Global Compliance Officer shall also identify strategies to prevent any detriment to the whistleblower and other relevant interested parties. These strategies shall be proportionate to the risk identified. Possible preventive measures may include, but are not limited to

- i. changing workplace or reporting arrangements;
- ii. providing support throughout the process, including regular communication, with special consideration towards vulnerable people (e.g., people affected by [sexual] harassment or discrimination);
- iii. warning the subject of the report or interested parties that detrimental conduct or breach of confidentiality can be a disciplinary offence;
- iv. encouraging and reassuring the whistleblower of the importance of reporting concerns related to misconduct; and
- v. safeguarding the whistleblower's interests wherever possible.

If detriment is occurring or has occurred, remediation measures may be needed. Possible remediation measures may be, but are not limited to:

- o reinstating the whistleblower in the same or equivalent position, with equal salary, responsibilities, working position and reputation;
- o ensuring fair access to promotion, training, opportunities, benefits, and entitlements; and
- o withdrawing litigation.

In high-risk cases, the Global Compliance Officer may consider involving other functions, such as Human Resources (HR) or Internal Audit, to provide cross-functional oversight.

If the allegations are found to be frivolous, mischievous, or malicious, the Speak Up process is terminated. The individual that has made a report may be subject to disciplinary measures according to the NovaTastes disciplinary Policy.

Triage and risk assessments shall happen within approximately two (2) weeks after acknowledgement. The whistleblower shall be informed unless internal investigations or the rights of persons involved would be jeopardized.

5.3.4. Support and protection measures

Depending on the risk assessment, different protection and supporting strategies may be implemented. Coordination with HR and/or external legal firms may be required.

The Executive Committee (EC) is accountable for ensuring support and protection, while the Global Compliance Officer is responsible for the implementation of support and protection measures.

Support and protection measures shall be provided after triage and risk assessment, throughout the whole investigation, and even after the closing of the case.

5.3.5. Decision to investigate

Depending on the outcome of the triage and initial risk assessment, which shall consider the nature of the case, the Integrity Committee may decide to investigate or not to investigate. The Global Compliance Officer shall inform the Integrity Committee about all cases and consult it. The Integrity Committee shall choose an impartial and suitably qualified investigation team which may include external consultants where required for their independence or expertise. The Global Compliance Officer may also delegate the investigation lead to other relevant functions within the Group as appropriate (e.g., Internal Audit).

The decision to investigate and the engagement of the investigation team needs to happen within approximately three weeks after the acknowledgement of receipt. The whistleblower shall be informed about the decision to investigate unless internal investigations or the rights of persons involved would be jeopardized.

5.3.6. Investigation

The investigation team shall conduct the investigation without bias. The accused shall be given the right to respond and have the opportunity to be assisted by a representative of a works councillor (if applicable).

Every investigation needs an investigation plan. The investigation process includes data gathering and interviews conducted by suitably qualified investigators. During the investigation, the investigation team shall regularly update the Integrity Committee on progress.

The investigation may take up to three months after the acknowledgement of receipt. In certain cases, the investigation may take up to six month if necessary.

5.3.7. Recommendation & Decision of Integrity Committee

Once all relevant information is gathered, the investigation team shall decide whether the evidence supports the allegations of misconduct or not. The investigation team shall issue findings, provide recommendations, and document the investigation conducted accordingly.

If the evidence supports the allegations of misconduct, the findings shall be brought before the Integrity Committee composed of Legal, HR, Internal Audit, CFO, CEO and elected works councillor (if applicable) and, if needed in a specific case, other relevant parties. The Integrity Committee will evaluate the recommendations and decide on recommendations of disciplinary and remediation measures to the responsible management.

The whistleblower shall then be informed about the conclusion of the investigation and the decision of the Integrity Committee if measures are taken within three months after the acknowledgement of receipt unless internal investigations or the rights of persons involved would be jeopardized.

5.3.8. Closing the case

The Global Compliance Officer shall review the case to make sure all necessary information and documentation is safeguarded, including the decisions of the Integrity Committee and the date of the decision of the Integrity Committee of closing the case and what action was or is planned to be taken.

The case shall be closed within approximately three to four months after the acknowledgement of receipt.

5.3.9. Organizational learnings and other measures

After closing the case, disciplinary and/or remediation measures are being implemented. The Integrity Committee shall decide who is the person responsible for and will oversee the implementation of these measures. The remediation measures shall then be monitored by the CFO. For disciplinary measures, please see the following chapter.

6. Disciplinary Measures

Once internal investigations have been completed and in case the accused has been found to have engaged in misconduct, the appropriate disciplinary measures or sanctions must be taken – with due regard for the principles of equal treatment and proportionality and employment law obligations.

Depending on the severity of the misconduct, various type of disciplinary measures may be imposed according to the employment law.

Furthermore, any person engaged in retaliation may face potentially consequences under applicable legislation or regulations.

7. Additional Resources

NovaTaste will ensure that all new employees will receive introduction on the NovaTaste Speak up policy and will provide refresher training at regular intervals to all employees.

If there are any questions about this policy, the Speak up process or whistleblowing in general, employees may contact the Global Compliance Officer in his capacity as policy owner and person responsible for the Speak up process.
